

Alphabet International Camps – Go Green

Going green is a term used to describe lifestyle changes we make in order to benefit the environment and minimize our impact on global warming, pollution, and habitat damage.

Why is it important for us?

As well as providing weeks of fun for our campers, we feel it is our duty to practice and impart skills with which they can better prepare for the future. All efforts of going green, from raising awareness about the most pressing issues we face today to lowering our carbon footprint, are aimed at ensuring a more sustainable future.

What are we doing about it?

There are plenty of small and large changes all of us can make to provide a greener future. At our camps we stress the importance of the following green principles, all easily transferable to campers' lives at home.

1. We fill up our WATER BOTTLES to reduce plastic waste
2. We SAVE ELECTRICITY by turning lights off when we don't need them
3. We RESPECT THE ENVIRONMENT & actively PROTECT IT (pick up anything that should not be there)
4. We DON'T WASTE FOOD, we finish everything on our plate
5. We SAVE WATER and remind each other to turn off the taps
6. We know our 3 "R's": REDUCE, REUSE, RECYCLE
